That the Owingsville Inquirer died in the first year of its existence was due to other causes than a lack of appreciation and patronage on the part of one of the best Democratic communities in which we ever located. The individual mention of old familiar names in the OUTLOOK -of Hon. George Hamilton, Commonwealth's Attorney Robert Riddell, County Attorney Henry L. Stone, Jailer Chas. Hoon, Poorhouse Keeper Andy Mase, School Commissioner E. V. Brother and many others, living and dead, all of whom were stanch friends of our newspaper—the material of which was transported in a two-horse wagon from Lexington and for five miles over a dirt road that made an additional pair of double-breasted mules groan in the anguish of their muscles-revives in us a feeling akin to that of Rip Van Winkle when just out of the mountains For what Bro.
